

OSU Research Forests

Recreation and Engagement Manager

Are you passionate about outdoor recreation?

Join the team on one of the largest university research forests in the world!

Make a meaningful difference in Oregon's communities and for cherished recreational opportunities. The Oregon State University Research Forest system is recruiting a collaborative, community-oriented, and creative individual with a passion for outdoor recreation. Our research forests play a key regional role in research, education, demonstration, and extension, and also provide ample opportunities for many forms of outdoor recreation for local communities and visitors.
